Hi Suja,

Thanks, I've been good and hope things are going well for you as well. For the school project application, we don't have a docketing system but I'll ask my staff to formally add the City as an interested party for any notices and to also add the City as a "cc" on any new correspondence for the school's application. Is there someone on your staff you'd like us to use as the point of contact? Also, yes, the City could choose to join as co-applicant provided the school district is in agreement (which would also ensure that you receive all notifications and letters). If that's something you and the school district would like to do, I'll have the signature pages of the application forwarded to you.

Steve

Subject: [Advice Requested] notifications on project actions

Hi there, Steve. Happy Tuesday to you. I hope you have been great. We have a number of big items on our project list here in the City that has kept our small team busy. I know you and your team are beyond busy. I am hoping I can request some advice on how to receive notifications of key communications or actions from Coastal such as the attached letter to the School District.

The City recently entered into an MOU with the Hermosa Beach City School District to resolve traffic, transportation and student drop-off/pick up issues related to the North School reconstruction project (417 25th Street). Key MOU provisions include retaining a transportation planner/traffic engineer, development of a Neighborhood Traffic Management Plan to be reviewed and approved by the City Council and School Board, community involvement in the development of the Neighborhood Traffic Management Plan, and cost sharing arrangements between the City and School District. We were so grateful that a resident shared the attached letter from Coastal as the recently entered into MOU has shared deliverables by City staff and School District staff.

Is there a way for the City to more formally involve itself, i.e., as a real party in interest on the application? Alternatively, does the Coastal Commission have a docketing system that allows us to be automatically notified of filings, correspondence, etc. related to the application? Would you kindly let me know what you suggest?

Thank you, Steve.

Warmly,
suja
